

NONGAME AND ENDANGERED WILDLIFE PROGRAM

Roster of Donors

July 1 - December 31, 2010

Thank you to all who contributed to the Nongame and Endangered Wildlife Program during the last half of 2010, including those who responded to our 2010 special fall appeal. With your support, research efforts are underway up north in the high-elevation spruce-fir forests of New Hampshire. The Nongame Program at N.H. Fish and Game is carrying out one-of-a-kind studies to find out how the development of alternative energy sources may impact wildlife. Our researchers are monitoring and radio-tracking state-threatened American marten in the snow this winter, and biologists are preparing to survey Bicknell's thrush as they return in the spring. Both of these studies are being done in areas where wind turbines may one day be built. Ultimately, the results of these studies may be used throughout the country to determine potential impacts to wildlife from the development of alternative energy sources.

This is just one example of the many projects on behalf of Nongame and Endangered Wildlife that are made possible by your contributions. Our heartfelt thanks for your continued support.
